Where Did the Inspiration for the Name "Foo Foo" Come From?

A "Foo Foo" is, by definition: An impromptu musical band known to come together on late 19th-century sailing vessels, consisting of members from the ship's crew. So, quite literally, the gathering of Pensacola's arts and entertainment organizations during this period of time is our very own "Foo Foo."

How Did the Foo Foo Festival Come About?

Arts, Culture and Entertainment, Inc. (ACE) approached the county commission with the thought of securing grant monies to be distributed among various arts/cultural organizations in the Pensacola area. The goal was to fill the period of time between some of Pensacola's most popular cultural events—like the Frank Brown International Songwriters Festival, the Great Gulfcoast Arts Festival, and the Blue Angels Homecoming Show at NAS Pensacola—with fun events attractive to "cultural tourists." Foo Foo Fest offers a unique slate of events during the month of November or the middle of said off-season.

But What About the Existing Festivals?

The larger, or "anchor" festivals and events such as the Blue Angels Homecoming Show, the Frank Brown International Songwriters Festival, and the Great Gulfcoast Arts Festival are all successful and attractive events in their own right. ACE's goal by allocating grant money was to challenge Pensacola's other local groups and organizations to create unique events on their own, to occur (primarily) in between the anchor weekend events. This creates a robust schedule of events on the days between the two weekends of Nov. 3 – Nov. 14, 2022.
